Wonderful recreational facilities in a setting of great beauty are our heritage. Our lake offers swimming, boating, water skiing, and fishing. Our mountains and valleys lure the hunter, horseback rider, camper, berry picker--and this year the skier. Here are scenes depicting our new resort and pride of our community, Schweitzer Basin.

We are unquestionably THE LUCKY ONES.

Fall Activities Are Varied

This is one of the few times that our indispensable buses may be seen inactive: they offer transportation for approximately fifty percent of our students.

The senior girls look serious as they eagerly (?) prepare to start school.

New office girl? No, just Terry Eller, the keeper of attendance records.

The Home Ec girls believe in "saying it with flowers" and do it well in flower arrangement projects.

The juniors say "hello" Hawaiian style during fall Hello Week.

Administrators and Faculty Direct Our Schooling

Lucky are we to have superior administrators and faculty members. We appreciate their patience and understanding-and aren't they The Lucky Ones to have Us.

VIPS of Our School District

DICK SODORFF
Our principal manages the school (twenty-eight teachers and 600 students) with a firm and kindly hand.

JACK JONES
One of Bonner County's largest businesses--the public school system--is master minded by the invincible Mr. Jones.

MIKE LAMANNA
Assistant Supervisor

IRIS HAMMONS
Assistant Supervisor

BUD NACCARATO
Transportation Director

SCHOOL BOARD
We want to pay tribute to the members of our school board, whose unselfish work toward improving education helps to make us The Lucky Ones. BACK: Mr. V. A. Efficiency Experts Offer Service to SHS

Mrs. Sodorff, our girls' counselor, is ably assisted by student office girls who file, type, and help with the processing of aptitude tests. Seated: Mrs. Sodorff. Standing: Bonnie Vergote, Dana Smith, Rita Kiebert, Joan Andrews, Maxeen Lane, and Judy Baldwin.

Book worms and research workers receive guidance from Mr. Baldwin and assistant librarians-Sherill Timblin, Donna Kirkpatrick, Greta Keaton, and Miriam Buck.

Boys' counselor, Mr. Croy, is flanked by his assistants--Janis Slette, Lauralie Linscott, Ruth Schmidt, Judie Hagadone, Sally O'Donnell, and Ruth Walker.

Good Leaders
Mold
Good Followers

Lucky are we to have a democratic student government with strong and respected leaders. It is the dedication of such leaders that makes our years at SHS run more smoothly.

Student Body Officers

Our Student Body Officers are fine examples of outstanding leaders-capable, efficient, and fun-loving.

Homecoming

October 11, 1963

One of the memorable moments of the year was the giant pep rally on the eve of the Homecoming Game. A roaring fire on the beach culminated the pre-game celebration.

Our lovely Homecoming princesses give a smile and a wave as they leave the field.

The climax of Homecoming night was the crowning of our charming Homecoming queen, Dana Smith.

Almost everyone did something for Homecoming. When asked what they were doing, Sally, Judy, and Sheila replied, "Mum's the word."

The Homecoming Game with Coeur d'Alene, our old rivals, was appropriately filled with suspense, tension, and excitement.

Seniors,

Juniors,

Sophomores

Fill Our Halls

with Vitality

We often complain about our assignments, become easy prey for procrastination, and yet put forth all our effort in having fun; but we also grasp some of the vast knowledge offered to us here and realize that we are The Lucky Ones to be part of SHS

Senior Officers

Lucky are we to have senior class officers who work as well as frolic.

"Three Coins in a Fountain"

Sheila and Pat's wish is granted: they reign as King and Queen of our SENIOR BALL.

Couples dance under sparkling lights and silver fountains which represent the theme of our Ball, "Three Coins in a Fountain."

The Fairest of the Fair (above) pose for their traditional Senior Ball photograph.

The Senior boys are lucky indeed, no high heels or aching feet to contend with.

Our Lucky Years

On August 28, 1961, the class of 1964 entered the doors of Sandpoint Senior High School, eager to begin the most memorable years of their lives. Hello Week was the first big event of the year, and the class elected Carol Ames and Frank Goodwin their friendliest couple. Doug Ward, president; Carol Ames, vice-president; and Betty Dillon secretary, were chosen as the sophomore class officers.

The weeks flew by, and soon the class was an "old hand" at high school life. They were now acquainted with clubs, activities, and teachers. The class selected Peggy Iverson as their queen candidate at the annual Leohono Carnival. Judy Baldwin and Dave Dillon reigned as King and Queen of the King and Queen's Ball. With the helpful guidance of Mrs. Brunsell and Mr. Fredlund, the class ended their sophomore year.

The next year the class returned, this time as juniors. With the same relentless energy, they tackled the oncoming year. Sydney Cramer and Jay Miller were selected as the friendliest couple during Hello Week, and Sydney was the candidate for Leohono Queen.

With class officers-Marsha McComas, president; Jay Miller, vice-president; and Judy Shoemaker, secretary-leading them on, the class worked hard selling Christmas trees. They selected their class rings. The ITED, PSAT, National Math, National Merit, and College Board tests were new and stimulating experiences for the juniors. Throughout the year the class was guided by Mr. Croy and Mr. Baldwin.

The Class of 1964 entered their senior year with mixed emotions. Before them was an end to the life they had known and the beginning of a new and different world. The class was led by Dick Curtis, president; Mike Thompson, vice president; and Carol Ames, secretary, as class officers. Three seniors led the student body in their final year. Ken Hall, president; Ed Ostrom, vice-president; and Grace Nordgaarden, secretary, were the student body officers for 1963-64. A novelty in student affairs, five senior girls-Sydney Cramer, Sally Davis, Allison Dreier, Judy Baldwin, and Eileen Solomon-were elected cheerleaders and mascot.

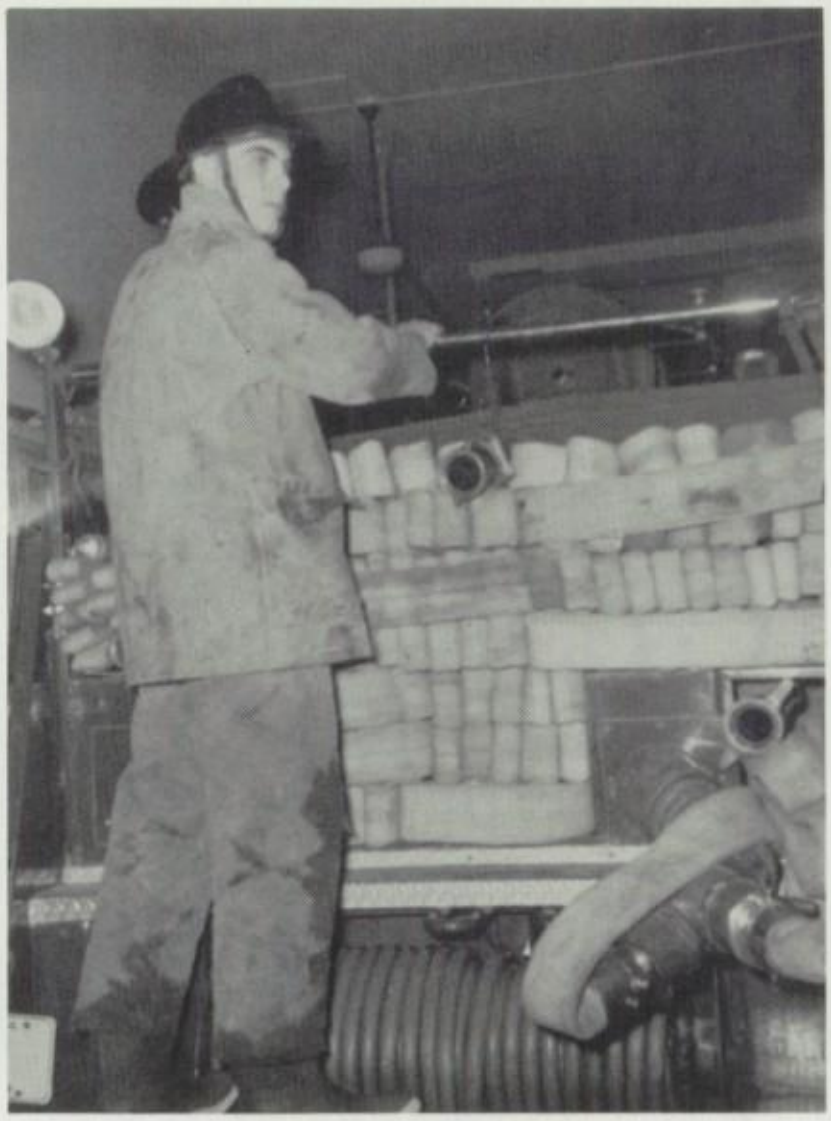
Homecoming was a memorable event with Dana Smith crowned as Homecoming Queen, and Carol Ames, Sydney Cramer, Grace Nordgaarden, and Nancy Smith as princesses. The class was jubilant when their candidate, Beth Kellogg, was crowned Leohono Queen. Sheila Stevens and Pat Gallaher reigned as King and Queen of the Senior Ball, "Three Coins in a Fountain." Eileen Solomon, Ed Ostrom, Ruth Walker, and Dick Beyer served as attendants. The Senior Play "Dr. Jekell and Mr. Hyde" was a huge success.

Lyle Bergstrom won the Hunt Trophy and Jerry Kramer award at the annual football banquet, crowning a successful season of no losses.

The senior class of 1964 would like to express their sincerest appreciation and gratitude to their advisers--Mr. Kaufman, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Sodorff, and Mr. Anderson--for helping to add the final chapter in "Our Years."

Senior Variety Page

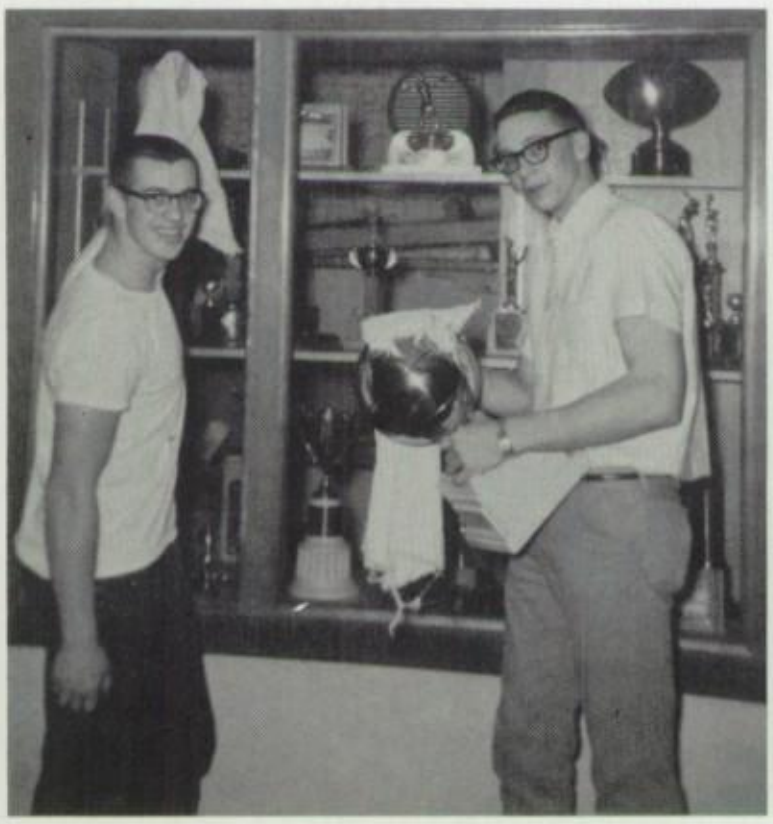
Ray finds compensations for ski accident.



Tom wants to be a fireman when he grows up.

Keep reaching, Judy!

Work! Work! Work!--Lyle Bergstrom and Dick Curtis.



Glowing examples of student spirit before a basketball game are Judy Shoemaker, Sydney Cramer, Dana Smith, Sally O'Donnell, Sally Davis, and Karen Nelson.

The Juniors are lucky too-
next year they'll be Seniors!

In Memoriam

Karen Sue Fredstrom

We shall miss her
Her special bubbly laugh
Her soft brown hair
Her bouncy walk
Though we know He must have a special purpose for her-
Teaching us his power
Teaching us to prepare
Showing us that earth is but the beginning of life
Still--we shall miss her.

The Sandpoint Bulldogs started their most successful season in years with a smashing victory over the Wallace Miners on the home field of the Miners. The next team to fall victim to the crushing attack of the Bulldogs was the Moscow Bears in an exciting game played at home. University High fell next, followed by the Bonners Ferry Badgers. The Badgers were left with a shutout in the game played on the Badgers' home field. Clarkston proved to be our first really tough adversary. They managed to push over the tying touchdown late in the fourth quarter, leaving Sandpoint with one mar on their record. Bad luck was not to abandon the Bulldogs, for in the following game with Coeur d'Alene, we were once again tied. Sandpoint quickly recovered, however, and crushed Lewiston in the following game. Kellogg, too, fell to the reinspired Bulldogs. The final game with Libby climaxed the successful season when the Loggers were shut out by the mighty Bulldogs. When all records were tallied, Sandpoint finished first in the Inland Empire League and tied for first in the Panhandle League.

CHAMPIONS BUILD CHAMPIONS!
